

Problem:

Create a mobile app designed for college students to manage a free, flexible peer-tutoring network for younger community students, leveraging their academic expertise. The app would function as a central hub, allowing college volunteers to securely log their availability, view pre-approved tutoring schedules, and receive instant notifications with the specific time, date, and verified on-campus or virtual location for each scheduled session.